A Workforce Intermediary
TAPping Mature Worker Strengths

If you are 55 years or older and would benefit from receiving specialized assistance in accessing opportunities as well as evaluating barriers and options for career transition, consider the Aging Worker Initiative (AWI).

AWI is offered through WorkOne Centers in West Central Indiana. As an enrollee, you will interact with WorkOne staff and specially trained Aging Worker Specialists and will:

- Be treated with respect
- Have access to the Career Transition Hub where you will have a sense of belonging
- Be given open and honest guidance and feedback
- Access tools, resources and information to enrich your job search
- Have a clear understanding of what is expected during your participation in the program
- Receive the training that is needed to pursue an appropriate job match
- Receive recognition for progress

Just as a major trip requires organizing, packing and making travel arrangements, career transition in our mature years requires the same kind of dedication and planning. AWI staff work as your “travel agent” through your career transition journey to a successful destination.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS:

Where can I find out more about this program?

Contact your local WorkOne Center or Express Site in the West Central Indiana region. You can find the contact information for a location near you at www.workonewestcentral.org/locations.cfm or on the back panel of this brochure.

How does someone enroll in AWI?

You must be 55 years or older and first register with the WorkOne Center. However, not all of those interested may be served or derive benefit from the uniqueness of the AWI project.

Is there a charge for the services?

No, the program is free to participants.

What kind of services will I receive?

Services are individualized to the needs of the mature customer and may include, but not be limited to, assessments, one on one career counseling, training/ education referral for qualified customers, assistance in today's resume development, job club/affinity group membership, internship opportunities, and power networking.
